Additional Information:

Description: The honey-scented flowers of this new (and still quite rare) butterfly bush are really long (up to 50cm), and they are pendent, so hang wisteria-like from the branches. It also looks great in a mixed border or when used to create an informal screen. Flowers July-September.

Growing Information

For best show of flowers plant in full sun in fertile well-drain soil. Plant in spring or Autumn before the first frosts and water thoroughly after planting. Deadhead flowers to encourage new and prune in late spring.
